

Politics

Politics throws up two sorts of leader.
There are those forever reaching for an umbrella and others,
far fewer in number,
who set out to change the weather.
Western democracies have lately boasted a superabundance of politicians sheltering from the storm.

Philip Stephens,
Financial Times, April 8, 2021