

Snapshot

Never was he able to think of himself as a man no more important than other men.

Never could he involve himself deeply in the give and take of politics.

Yet neither did he choose the easy alternative of a monkish withdrawal from the world of men.

He remained a detached man who sought involvement.

Walter Lippmann
portrayed by William E. Leuchtenburg